Dr. Joe Bruner

After graduating from the Ohio State University School of Veterinary Medicine, Dr. Joe Bruner entered private small animal practice before completing an internship in Small Animal Medicine and Surgery at Virginia-Maryland Regional College of Veterinary Medicine, a residency in Small Animal Medicine at Purdue University School of Veterinary Medicine, and miraculously gaining board certification from the American College of Veterinary Internal Medicine. Dr. Bruner currently co-owns Greater Cincinnati Veterinary Specialists in Wilder, Kentucky and is an independent consultant for Antech Diagnostics. Dr. Bruner's special interests include disorders of the respiratory tract and endocrinopathies. Joe lectures frequently to anyone who will listen and has written numerous articles and textbook chapters that no one has read.

Dr. Stephanie Bruner

After graduating from Purdue University School of Veterinary Medicine, Dr. Stephanie Bruner entered small animal practice for four years. After determining that dogs and cats in the Midwest like to scratch themselves too much, she completed a residency in Comparative Veterinary Dermatology at Purdue and became a board-certified veterinary dermatologist. Dr. Bruner co-owns Greater Cincinnati Veterinary Specialists in Wilder, Kentucky and is an independent consultant for Antech Diagnostics. Stephanie's special interests include allergic dermatoses, ear disorders, and endocrinopathies. She enjoys speaking around the country. This Dr. Bruner doesn't enjoy writing articles and textbook chapters, but she has done a lot of it. The Bruners share a home and an office with their 3 children, dog, cat, guinea pig, Umbrella Cockatoo, Rosey-haired Chilean Tarantula, bullfrog, tadpole, five hermit crabs and two leaches. It's a long story...
